Join us as SFAC presents
a Lifetime Achievement Award to Lou Jacklich

Also Performing (See page 2):
Pamela Tom    Scott Anderson
Kate Froeberg    Yifan Tong

Alicia Baker has been a passionate musician since early childhood. She recently competed at the Accordionists and Teachers Guild International Festival held in San Francisco in July, and she performed and taught at the Las Vegas International Accordion Convention last month.

She began studying piano at age 4, the accordion at age 6 and vocally at age 14. Alicia graduated from Oregon State University with a Bachelor of Arts degree in Music Education, Piano Performance, and Vocal Performance.

Alicia has found the most tangible success with the accordion. In addition to her award(s) at the ATG Festival in July, she placed third at the Coupe Mondiale Accordion World Championships in the digital division, which were held in Victoria, BC, last August. Alicia has also won several other International competitions, including the Happy Hans Open (four times) and the Leavenworth Open.

Aside from competitive events, Alicia has performed solo accordion concerts at many notable festivals. These include the American Accordion Association Convention, Cotati Accordion Festival, previous Accordionists and Teachers Guild International Festivals, KIOTAC, Leavenworth Old-Time Accordion Festival, and the NAMM show. In 2011, she was privileged to join the Corvallis symphony as the soloist for Nikolai Chaikin's Accordion Concerto in B-flat Major.

In addition to her three instruments, Alicia also discovered a passion for musical composition. She has composed many solo accordion pieces, a few piano solo pieces, and two works for choir. Alicia won the KRAFT composition competition held at OSU in 2011, and was honored to have her composition, The Unseen, written for choir, cello, and piano, performed by the OSU Chamber Choir. She plans to continue composing, and hopes to become a published composer.

On Tuesday August 12, Alicia performed with China's Jianan Tian, a world-class accordionist and winner of 28 international competitions, in her home town of Milwaukie, Oregon.

ALSO PERFORMING THIS MONTH:

PAMELA TOM

Native San Franciscan, Pamela Tom, has been a pianist since she was twelve years old for numerous venues: church, weddings, teas, and choirs. Since 2011, Pam has been an accordion student under the tutelage of accordion maestro, Lou Jacklich, and has been mentored by accordion pros: Gloria Ensign, Sylvia Marie Barber, and Shelia Lee. Pam has performed privately and publicly in nine California counties.

She plays a wide genre of music in her versatile accordion repertoire. Pam enthusiastically attends accordion events across the nation and is an active member with the San Francisco Accordion Club, Golden State Accordion Club, and the Accordionists & Teachers Guild International.

KATE FROEBERG

Kate Froeberg started playing accordion at four years of age when all the other neighborhood children went off to kindergarten. Her teacher, Victor Leone, was a protégé of Joe Biviano, and was an instructor at the Biviano Studios along with Tony Mecca. He was a terrific teacher, not only of accordion technique, but also of jazz theory and improvisation. Over the 12 or so years that she took weekly private lessons from him, he endeavored to instill a deep appreciation for jazz standards as well as the beauty and passion the instrument could bring to classical arrangements and popular music.

Thirty years later, her two children were actively involved in Peninsula Youth Theater. "Fiddler on the Roof" was one of their performances, and, at her musician husband's urging, she learned the show which was the first new piece of music she had learned since she was 17. She had fun and was recommended by her fellow musicians to other conductors. She played "Fiddler" for the St. Lawrence Academy, Woodside Community Players, and West Valley Light Opera.

A couple of months ago, she saw a notice for an Accordion Class at the Cupertino Senior Center, met Reno Di Bono, and was inspired by SFAC to revisit her musicianship roots. She is now a happy new club member.

SCOTT ANDERSON

Scott Anderson will perform for us as well. Scott was exposed to accordion music while living in Paris as a child, and later in San Antonio, Texas.

He began studying with Lou Jacklich 15 years ago, and jokes, "I may be Lou's slowest learning student, but the accordion rounds out my life and has introduced me to many friends." Scott has participated in the Orchestra Projects organized by Richard Yaus.

YIFAN TONG

Yifan Tong came to the United States in 2011. He now lives in San Ramon, a beautiful city with good schools, according to his mother.

Yifan is almost 10 years old and played two pieces for the recent competition at the ATG Festival. He had played the accordion for about two years before his family left China. His teacher was Shouzhi

Wu, a professor at the Sichaun Conservatory who lives in Chengdu, Sichuan, China.

3 2014 COTATI FESTIVAL - A BIG SUCCESS

By Lynn Ewing

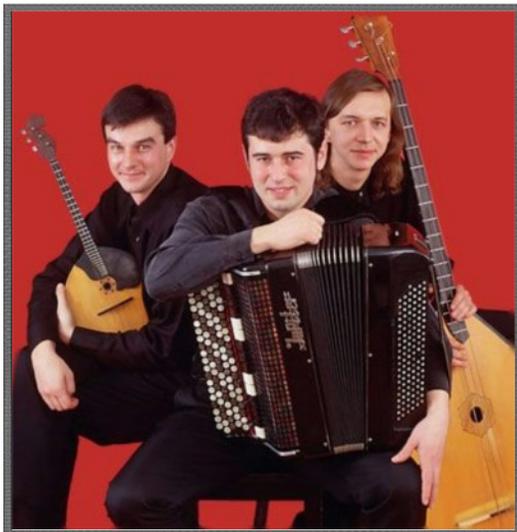

The 2014 Festival at Cotati was a big success this year. I found that the mix between entertainment, fine musicianship, and young people worked extremely well. My absolute favorite performer was Jianan Tian, a young lady from China who is only 21 years old. She is a real virtuoso of the instrument, with dazzling command of her repertoire.

Jianan Tian

Closely following her were my next favorites, the Trio Voronezh, and Alicia Baker. The trio is a

Trio Voronezh

Russian group consisting of Vladimir Volokhin, Valerie Petrukhin and Sergei Teleshev who started playing together in 1993. They now make base in Oregon. And we are so pleased that Alicia Baker will be performing for us this month.

Other favorites with the audiences were Bruce Gassman from New Jersey, who plays "rock" accordion; Vincenzo Abbraciante from Italy, a handsome young composer and performer we were fortunate to host at SFAC a couple of years ago; Matuto, a group from New York which combines their talents for a "Pan American" sound with diverse influences from North and South America; and Sourdough Slim, one of the most original and beloved Western entertainers of our time. SFAC's own Big Lou was the "Lady of Spain," who was joined by a number of other "Ladies" from various places, including yours truly, whom she invited up to be the "Lady of San Francisco." Next time I'll dress for it!

Lady of Spain-a-thon!

I want to specially mention the members of SFAC who performed: Aaron Seeman of Polkacide, Big Lou's Dance Party, and the Rob Reich Trio. Also performing were many accordionists who we have had the pleasure of hearing at SFAC meetings: Due Zighi Baci, The Great Morgani, and Jet Black

Pearl. The Jam Tent, sponsored by the Golden State Accordion Club was a real highlight as was the GSAC Band whose performances kicked off the entertainment both days.

COTATI FESTIVAL

I enjoyed the performances of the young people of "Future Accordion Stars": Joey Mantella, age 9; Derek Yuan, age 10; Susanna Leon, age 11; Christopher Steffan, age 12; William Steffan, age 14; Mira Spremich, age 16; Jonathan Lathrop,

The festival was rounded out by Jazz artist Paul Betken, from the Phoenix area, who is a friend of mine from the Mesa Accordion Event; the Mad Maggies from Canada; Rory McNamara & the Ring of Truth Trio; Tara Linda & the Tortilla Western Posse; superstars Andre Thierry & Zydeco Magic; and, of course, the legendary Dick Contino!

Elaine and Robert Cooperstein and Lynn Ewing

Huge thanks to Robert and Elaine Cooperstein, who set up our table and spent large amounts of time there, as well as Maryanne Romanowski who tended the table most of Saturday. Sharon and Gus Greyhosky, Taffy Steffen and Gwyn Lister and her daughter, Pamela also staffed our table, overseeing our sheet music sale and give away. Through their efforts SFAC is now richer by four new members!

Ron Borelli at the 2014 Cotati Festival

THE PETER SOAVE MUSIC ACADEMY

By Gwyn Lister

My daughter, Pamela Lister, and I had a wonderful two weeks at the Peter Soave Music Academy in Sauris, Italy. Professional accordionists, Peter and Madeleine Soave offer Master Classes for musicians (primarily accordionists) that provide insight into their personal perspectives about music-making.

The charming village of Sauris is located two hours from Venice in the Dolomite mountains. The lovely Hotel Margenleit was modern, quaint and has outstanding regional cuisine.

Peter and Madeleine Soave

Peter and his wife, Mady, were caring hosts. Our group was very international including accordionists and one violinist from France, Italy, Germany, Canada, and the two of us from the USA. We had daily workshops, a music lesson every day, and orchestra practice for the concert we gave on our last day. The orchestra, made up of about 15 piano accordion players and Bayan players, practiced and played 15 classical pieces at the concert.

Our instructors were Peter and Mady, Mary Tokarski, Dennis Tini and Stas Venglevski. Everyone was very friendly, even if we did not speak their language. Think about making the trip at some time – it was an out-standing experience.

Lou Jacklich Honored at ATG as an Accordion Legend

By Pamela Tom and Scott Anderson

Lou Jacklich (veteran accordion performer, teacher and pioneer) was honored on July 25, 2014, at the 74th Accordionists & Teachers Guild International Festival in San Francisco, California.

Lynn Ewing, San Francisco Accordion Club President, paid tribute to Mr. Jacklich and recounted his career and accomplishments during 70 years of teaching and 78 years of performing. A dedicated teacher, he still has gigs and teaches in his studio in San Lorenzo, CA.

"The Maestro," as he is affectionately called by his students, was born across the San Francisco Bay in Hayward in 1928. His love affair with the accordion started at age 7, and, nearly 78 years later, his passion for the accordion remains strong.

At 11 years old, he played solo with a Thousand Violins at the San Francisco Treasure Island World's Fair. At 16 years old, he sported a moustache to appear older, started giving lessons and joined the Musicians Union to play the vaudeville Orpheum Circuit (from Portland, Oregon, on down the West Coast). In his teens, he landed a job at a night club in Daly City and performed a solo with the Horace Heidt Show.

In addition to attending SF State College where he studied Counterpoint, Theory, Conducting and Psychology of Music, he was also honored with a degree from the California Music Teachers Association, one of the few accordionists to receive this distinction.

Lou served in the Navy and was lucky to be based in Oakland where he could retain his students as well as give the Admiral lessons. A versatile musician, he also plays piano, organ, xylophone, violin, steel guitar and drums. His knowledge was of great value in writing arrangements for his Combo which had bookings for radio, clubs and USO tours throughout the country.

When Lou opened the Jacklich School of Music in Castro Valley, it became one of the busiest in the 50's during the heyday of accordion teaching. The School grew to 400 students and had 4 accordion bands, and 19 combos. He created the successful "Composers Workshop" where students learned to write and compose their own music.

Lou was also a pioneer with MIDI equipment and sophisticated amplification on stage using the Lovell organ attachment for accordion. Lou was one of the first accordion artists to introduce the "electronically" enhanced accordion playing it both for his recording, Lou Jacklich Plays, and on engagements throughout the country. Artistically and brilliantly, he created a unique sound that set him apart from the rest of the accordionists. He recorded for Capitol Records and appeared on many TV, radio and concert programs.

Lou is very generous in sharing his knowledge and is a natural teacher. He has enriched the lives of over one thousand music students.

Some comments from his students:

"Lou treats all students as aspiring professionals. The teaching, coaching and mentoring are all designed to have the student achieve their potential."

"Lou is a great historian who can always be counted on to share a story or two about accordion life in the Bay Area... Spanning seven decades of teaching, he relates interesting anecdotes on the history of accordions. He is much more interesting than reading a book."

Contributors to this article include Lou's students whose cumulative years of learning easily exceed 50 years: Jack Behseresht, Elaine Cooperstein, Randy Hicks, Sue Hirigoyen, Steven Marshall, Jan Toepfer, Pamela Tom and Jane Tripi.

Scholarship Information

Scholarship Applications are due in OCTOBER and the award will be announced in November.

Club Member Participation and the Jam Band

By Don Savant

At a recent board meeting there was much discussion about fostering a welcoming informal atmosphere before our meetings and during breaks, so that club members will feel encouraged to bring their accordions to every meeting and play some tunes and/or join in a jam with other members.

Club co-founder Dominic Palmisano recalled, “When the club first started there was a glut of players wanting to perform at each meeting. We had to promise those who didn’t get to play a turn at the next one. People brought their accordions to every meeting hoping for a chance to play during breaks, and there were always members warming up before the formal program. The sound of the instrument was omni-present! However, as the club matured, this happy informal scene began to disappear.”

Today, our meeting format is based on solid individual performances with only a token amount of informal free play by our members-which is now embodied in the Jam Band. The Jam Band has demonstrated its ability to entice members to bring their instruments and enjoy the group activity. It’s also starting to sound great! “So, let’s use the Jam Band as the vehicle to invigorate the club and bring back those moments of spontaneity and member participation in all our future meetings,” suggested Dominic.

JAM BAND performing at December 2012 SFAC Club meeting.

Based on these thoughts the board has decided to have the Jam Band meet before all future meetings, rather than merely every other month. Members are encouraged to bring their accordions to all future meetings and to play during breaks as well as before the formal meeting. Members are also encouraged to bring multiple copies of music to share with other Jam Band participants. In this way the Jam Band repertoire can evolve and retain its spontaneity, rather than remain static.

Dominic had one other comment and made a very generous offer. “When we first started the club, we had instruments available for others to play. We figured it was the best way to encourage members or guests to pick up an accordion and try it out! Perhaps we could add this feature to our monthly meetings as well. Personally I’m willing to bring one to make available for anyone to pick up and play and not worry about it being damaged!”

Thanks, Dominic, for your insight as well as your generosity!

NEW MEMBERS

We are so happy to welcome 4 new members this month!

Ronni MacLaren, Chris Ackers, Bob Stanfield and Pam Kawashima all joined the SFAC after visiting us at our table at the Cotati Accordion Festival in August.

Ronni, Bob, and Pam all enjoy playing oldies and standards. Bob and Chris both play classical, and Chris also plays modern/jazz music.

Pam and Bob are both Board Members of the Silicon Valley Accordion Society, so their joining adds more connection with our brethren accordion club.

Again, from all of us at SFAC, let us join together in welcoming our new members!
